NEW TREATMENTS AND TECHNOLOGY

Exposure to the UV rays of the sun, environmental hazards, and general aging contribute to the development of fine lines and wrinkles, blotchy skin, and facial veins. The skin of the face is at particular risk because of its delicate nature and constant exposure to the environment. Effectively improving the appearance and health of the skin includes gently correcting the damaged skin and protecting the skin to help prevent further damage.

SkinCeuticals skin care products are physician directed, pharmaceutical grade products formulated to gently correct the signs of premature aging and protect the delicate skin of the face from further damage caused by exposure to the sun and environmental hazards. Stop in and ask the medical specialists at WVC if these products might be right for you.

Vein Gogh is a state of the art technology used to treat spider veins of the legs and unsightly facial veins that can contribute to blotchy appearing skin. These corrective treatments are quick and there is no downtime. We are currently the only medical center in north eastern Wisconsin to have this state of the art technology.

Latisse is the first and only FDA-approved product that makes your eyelashes grow longer, fuller, and darker. It is a unique treatment for hypotrichosis, which is the medical term for inadequate or not enough eyelashes. If you're dissatisfied with your eyelashes, Latisse may be right for you.
